Catechism Corner

WSC Q. 70. Which is the seventh commandment?

A. The seventh commandment is, Thou shalt not commit adultery.

We often under-interpret the seventh commandment. We assume the commandment against adultery relates only to married adults having an "affair." But the term used is much broader than what we think of as "adultery." It includes a broad range of thoughts, behaviors, attitudes, and actions of both married and single people.

It is a call to faithfulness and purity in our relations with others.
